

FWC Gopher Tortoise Conservation Program 2017 Local Government Workshop Series

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) is holding regional workshops to present information on opportunities for local governments to help conserve gopher tortoises in Florida.

The goal of these workshops is to identify ways cities and counties can participate in protecting one of Florida's threatened species. In addition, the FWC will discuss financial incentives available for local governments.

A workshop is scheduled in Northeast Florida. Representatives from local governments in nearby counties are encouraged to attend.
